February 13, 2008

Dear Distributor/Retailer:

This letter is to advise that Maple Chase Company, manufacturer of FireX® safety products, has stopped production of its 10000 series CO alarms, and 12000 series combination smoke/CO alarms, models COE and FADCM respectively. This action was taken as Maple Chase continues to investigate quality issues related to these two models and evaluates appropriate corrective actions.

Please immediately stop any shipments or sales of these two models of product, and set aside any remaining inventory. This notice is only applicable to FireX® branded 10000 and 12000 series units that were manufactured by Maple Chase between June 1, 2007 and February 1, 2008. Product within the scope of this timeframe can be identified by its date code, which appears on the back of each individual unit. The date code format for both the 10000 and 12000 series is as follows, "2007 JUN 1," for product build on June 1, 2007. The remaining affected date codes follow in sequential date order through, and including, "2008 FEB 1". Below is a list of the item numbers that were produced during this time frame and affected by this notice.

10000	12000C	12220
10000-6	12000-6	12400
12000	12200	12400C

If you know, or think you may have supplied product affected by this notice to other locations within your organization, please forward this letter to them.

Immediately following our further investigation of these two products, we will contact you with additional information and instructions. Thank you for your prompt attention to this matter.

Sincerely,

Kathy Ellington
